For the team at The Spa, gaining recognition from such a highly respected awards body is a proud moment indeed. “Winning the triple awards at World Luxury Spa Awards this year attests to the excellent wellness and spa experiences that guests can expect at Grand Park Kodhipparu, Maldives,” says Raffaele Solferino, General Manager of the luxury island resort in the Indian Ocean. “Credit truly goes to our team members at The Spa for their dedication and skills to deliver exceptional revitalizing moments for our guests.”

Situated on its own private jetty just metres from the villa accommodation, The Spa features seven spacious treatment rooms overlooking crystal clear waters. Partnered with Comfort Zone, the distinctive range of body and skincare treatments are tailored to each guest and utilise natural-origin, paraben-free products. Balinese and Ayurvedic spa rituals are among the Asian-inspired selection, delivered with care and intuition by the resort’s expertly-trained team of therapists. To complete the experience, The Spa’s dedicated yoga deck offers guests guided sunset yoga or meditation sessions looking out over the sea, a stress-melting end to a rejuvenating wellness journey.

A subdivision of the long-established World Luxury Hotel Awards, World Luxury Spa Awards are considered the pinnacle of achievement for high-end spas across the globe, setting the standard for quality, innovation and service. The accolades are the result of a month-long voting process, all carried out by genuine guests with this year’s edition seeing in excess of 100,000 votes cast for the 1000 qualifying spas.
